WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness, are often times symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.

JUDGE FRUIT ON APPEARANCE

All Product Should Be Well Assorted and Packed in the Most Approved Manner.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The selling value of fresh fruit and vegetable shipments is judged largely on appearance when received, say specialists of the bureau of markets, United States Department of Agriculture. Fruit should be well graded or assorted, packed in the most approved manner, and shipped when weather and market conditions seem most favorable.

Grading is one of the most important factors in preparation for the market. It is being studied by specialists of the bureau from every angle. Grades, which are optional, have been suggested for a number of commodities, and this work is being continued.

The marketing of the apple crop suggests the value of grading. If apples were not graded, the entire crop would have to be disposed of within four months. It is estimated that proper handling has extended the marketing period to seven or eight months. Investigation and experience have both shown that it only pays to ship the best produce. Stock which is not suitable for storage and shipment may be disposed of in the vicinity where grown, and the lowest quality be diverted to by-products factories.

ESSENTIALS OF BLACKBERRY

Tremendous Amount of Humus Required in Soil and Also Much Available Plant Food.

Blackberries require a tremendous amount of humus in the soil and also a big lot of available plant food. In sections where the humus quickly burns out of the soil or where the crowns of the bushes become diseased it is best to abandon the patch after two or three crops have been harvested, grub them up and turn the ground to some other crop. New berries can be set out on other ground.

Stable manure to the amount of at least 20 tons to the acre should be applied every year. More will do no harm. Where commercial fertilizers are used, particularly nitrogen, care must be used not to apply it at the wrong season as it has a tendency to cause an excessive cane growth at the expense of the crop fruit. And it is best to delay the application of stable manure until after the berries are bearing.

WATER OF MUCH IMPORTANCE

First Summer Is Most Critical Time in Life of Fruit Tree—Moisture Is Essential.

The most critical time in the life of a young fruit tree is during its first summer. The root system which, of necessity, was very badly mutilated at planting is handicapped in its ability to provide adequate soil moisture to the growing tree, even when there is ample moisture in the soil. The difficulty is intensified as the moisture in the soil decreases, until the point is reached where the tree dries out and dies. Much of the mortality found in young orchards is due to the starvation by drought during the summer, and may manifest itself before the end of the summer, or not show up until after freezing weather occurs. Then the injury oftentimes is attributed to the winter and is termed winter killing.

DWARF APPLE TREES FILL IN

Suitable for Orchardist Who Wants Fruit in Hurry and His Acreage Is Limited.

Dwarf apples are O. K. for the man who wants fruit in a hurry. But the trees are more expensive and more trees are needed to the acre. The yield per tree is less than for standard trees, but the acre yield is not so much reduced as you might expect.

If dwarf trees are set too low, the scions will throw out roots, and the trees will no longer be dwarfs. You have to keep these roots cut off.

The best proposition is to use dwarf trees for fillers, to bear before the standard trees are old enough. The dwarfs have to be cut out when the other trees begin to crowd them.

The man with a small acreage can well afford to buy dwarfs.

EXQUISITE MATERIALS FOR SUMMER PLAYTIME FROCKS

SUMMERTIME sets many lovely scenes as backgrounds for the summer girl, or anyone else who takes these backgrounds into consideration when choosing her frocks. For most of us, practical clothes for this workaday world in which we find ourselves are as important at least as those that are decorative, and it happens that the ginghams, chambrays, percales and other dependable cottons that make our frocks for work have attractions equal to those that make the dresses of our leisure hours. Special designers plan these dresses on lines that prove as charming as any others.

But the business of living requires us to have frocks for play and leisure, and summer brings with it the crisp, diaphanous stuffs that belong to it alone. Organdie and dotted swiss have their day under the skies of summer, and she is wise who makes the most of it. These materials come in the most exquisite and flower-like colorings and in white that looks as cool as snow; they are within the means of everyone and the easiest to make up neatly. The pretty models, as shown in the picture, are very simply designed and very successful. The plain organdie at the left is shown in white but looks well in any color, and especially so in the popular shades, as peach, jade, orchid, pale pink, blue or canary. Although many organdie and swiss dresses combine two colors, or a color and white, this dress uses only one. It has a straight skirt with wide tucks, a plain waist with tucked yestee, and an ample fichu-collared. The sleeves are elbow length and the girdle is made of organdie.

Many kinds of flowers are made of organdie and used for trimmings on frocks of this material. Peach-colored organdie, in a tucked frock with bodice cut in kimono style, has flat roses in different colors set about its round neck, and makes a wonderful background for them.

Snowy white dots on a blue ground, in the swiss dress at the right, make one think of snowflakes against a dark blue sky and looks cool and crisp as possible. It has a white organdie collar and vestee, short sleeves with double cuffs of organdie bound with dotted swiss and a blue ribbon sash. A few sprays of foliage embroidered in the tunic in white wool finish off a little dress that is equal to almost any summertime function.

DRESS ACCESSORIES THAT TONE UP SUMMER COSTUME

THERE are as many little things that tone up this summer's costume and lend it an accent, as any season has afforded. There are veils for those who like their softening lines, small fur neck-pieces that are graceful and kind to their wearers, girdles of "Ivory" and beads or "composition" in different colors that are new. There are many new necklaces of crystal and of seeds, new styles in beaded purses and others of new kinds of leather, including ostrich skin, and there are even a few new parasols, with those covered with cretonne a cheerful revival. By all such means charming changes and harmonies lend interest to summer costumes.

A pretty company of new shopping bags reveals these necessities made of summer silks as well as of ribbons. Tricotee and heavy crepe weaves are used for them in the same sort of mountings as are used for ribbon. In decorations they seem to have taken their cues from sport hats, the same embroideries in yarn and bead work appear on them. Those of ribbon present novelties, like the two pictured here, in which plain satin ribbon and narrow figured ribbons are combined and the bags mounted on metal mountings. The mountings will outwear the fabric, but will serve as well for new materials. An odd bag, suspended from the body of a doll, is shown in the picture, for wear with evening dress.

Strands of beads are the most popular of all purely decorative dress accessories and those of cut crystals vie with the universally worn strands of pearl beads. The glass beads are made in many colors, both in clear and opaque varieties; those that imitate jade are found to harmonize with nearly all summer dresses. Not much jewelry is worn, but a pretty novelty in bracelets is a delicate and flexible band of filigree silver flowers or a strand of rhinestones for the arm.

Get Ready for Hot Weather By Purifying the Blood

Many people simply melt in summer. They can't work or enjoy life. They lack vitality. Ten to one their blood is impoverished. Rich, wholesome blood is the basis of vitality. If you have it, you sturdily withstand summer temperatures. But if your blood is poor, loaded with poisons that should be cast out, you are limp and useless in "shirt-sleeve" weather.

Poisonous Fumes in Workshop.

The village smithy and the plumber or tinsmith's shop may be not so harmless as they have been supposed. From researches of more than a quarter of a century, Dr. James Gardner, English health officer, concludes that nearly invisible hot fumes, spreading from the chimneys of these workshops, carry a considerable charge of benzene and naphthalene, with manganese and other metallic poisons; and that the inhalation of these vapors tends to affect the skin and respiratory and nervous systems. The eventual result may be some form of skin disease, rheumatism, pneumonia or even cancer. Collecting the poisonous material in a cup or hood for the chimney is a suggested remedy.

The House of Lights.

"The vast hall was a blaze of dazzling light. From the center of the ceiling, almost touching the heads of the guests, hung a magnificent chandelier, fashioned like a huge rose, boasting a hundred gleaming electric bulbs which cast a wondrous radiance over the great assembly. Every niche in the ornate walls had a gleaming bulb and every alcove was a miniature of light! It was magnificent!"

At this point the struggling author dropped his pen and called out to his wife: "Rosie, for goodness' sake bring me another candle!"

The Queer Kilometer.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt told at an American Legion banquet a story about a fake soldier.

"Like most fakes," said Colonel Roosevelt, "he gave himself away. He was describing how he got his medals, and he made the fighting so fierce that one of his listeners said with a sneer:

"Under all that machine gun fire it's a wonder you didn't get hit."

"I would have got hit for sure," said the fake hero, "if I hadn't crouched down in a kilometer."

Foreign Wheat Yields.

The wheat yield of Australia is expected to be between 125,000,000 and 130,000,000 bushels, of which 100,000,000 are available for export. The current yield is the largest since 1914-17, although not the record year. The latest estimate for the 1920-21 wheat crop of India gives the total at 23,000,000 acres, as against 23,000,000 acres for the corresponding forecast of last year. The yield will be very much smaller proportionately than last year.

"Yes; it's to sell their books."
